EMOTIONAL AWARENESS

In order to manage your emotions, you first need to understand them. We all deal with many emotions throughout the day, often without even thinking about them. You might feel annoyed in the morning when your parent wakes you up early for school, happy when you remember you have your favorite club to go to, nervous when you get to school and there's a pop-quiz, and excited when you get a good grade.

Emotional awareness is just taking a step back and understanding how you are feeling. Once you can be more aware of your own feelings, you can learn how to best deal with them. Take a few minutes to think back and color in some of the emotions you've experienced today or recently:

Happy	Sad	Disappointed	Upset	Annoyed
Excited	Curious	Bored	Calm	Confident
Loved	Proud	Satisfied	Lonely	Grumpy
Thankful	Relaxed	Confused	Worried	Nervous
Hopeful	Frustrated	Relieved	Exhausted	Embarrassed
Afraid	Furious	Surprised	Silly	Carefree
Joyful	Inspired	Overwhelmed	Curious	Blissful
